Too good to be true? Could be fraud.

As hard as it is to admit, most fraud victims could have prevented it from happening. But you DO have some control to prevent ID theft. Learning to recognize fraud can help you avoid it. Here are some common schemes to watch out for:

"Get out of debt" plans

They'll get rid of negative items on your credit report for a fee. But they only file challenges, which removes the item until it can be verified. If it's accurate, it'll go back on and stay.

Sweepstakes cons

You've won a prize; put up a deposit and it's yours. But no legitimate sweepstakes asks for money or requires that you buy anything.

Job scams

"Stuff envelopes at home for big money!" While there are legitimate work-at-home options, most are scams. They require an up-front investment or "training fees," but never guarantee any work.

Protect yourself

Fraudsters always present a convincing case. Whether they contact you by phone or e-mail, here are some clues that may indicate the offer is not legit:

- The caller is excessively persistent.
- They ask for your Social Security, credit card or account numbers.
- They say you have to put up money before receiving promised training, merchandise or prizes.

Your home for home loans

It's easy to get confused in today's real estate market. Are home prices decreasing? Will rates rise? What's the deal with those "1% APR" and "Cashflow" mortgages advertised on the radio?

Our Home Lending Center experts cut through the clutter to help you find the loan that's best for your needs:

- 15- and 30-year fixed-rate first mortgages
- Fixed-rate second mortgages with terms to 15 years
- Interest-only or fully amortized Home Equity Line of Credit

We have lower loan rates and fees. In fact, we never charge "junk fees" as other lenders do.

When purchasing, refinancing, or using your equity, call our Home Lending Center first at 323/ 722-3400 or 800/ 835-3400.
